UNION RECOGNITION.

The demand for recognition is one which a union cannot compromise if it is to be anything more than a society for the exchange of individual commisera-tion. Concessions made to individuals are easily withdrawn after strikers return to work and are restored to a pacific mood.
Gradually the men find themselves being discharged, always for "cause," but actually as a punishment for having struck and as means of substituting other men willing to work for wages and under conditions which provoked the strike.

ALLEGED BAD MAN LEAVES.

Walter Blevins is Turned Over to the Montana Officers For Trial.
Knoxville.—Walter Blevins, alias Walter Curry, alleged Montana murderer and bandit, who also is said to be a yeggman, held in connection with the robbery of postoffices of Johnson City and Piney Flats, has been surrendered by the federal authorities here to state officers of Montana and is now en route to Anaconda, where he will be tried on charges of highway robbery and murder.

Blevins, in company with two other men, is charged with having held up and robbed parties in 15 automobiles returning from a dance at a country club near Anaconda. One of the automobile drivers refused to obey the command of the bandits, and it is charged that Blevins shot and killed him.

He has been engaged in work in Chattanooga and upper East Tennessee. U. S. District Attorney Kennerly has a letter claimed to be written by Blevins, in which he admits that he was a member of the famous Harvey Logan band.

Blevins has secured saws and had attempted to break jail in Knoxville and at Greenville, where he also has been confined. At Greenville he also tried to secure dynamite. Attempts were made to secure a habeas corpus writ on his behalf, but a hurried departure frustrated these efforts.

HOOR FIXING PRECEDENT.

Supreme Court Once Decided That Congress Has Full Power.

The appeal in the case of the eight hour law for trainmen has been filed in the United States supreme court, and that tribunal has been asked to give the issue an early hearing, says the New York World.

Already complaints are made that the courts are to be hurried, as was said of congress when the experimental law was enacted. Yet congress did not approach this question without preparation, and the supreme court having once formally passed upon the principle involved may be said to be even better equipped for prompt judgment.

Several years ago, when the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company appealed an hour fixing case, the court replied (221 U. S., 612):

This question admits of but one answer.
The length of hours of service has direct relation to the efficiency of the human agencies upon which protection to life and property depends. . . . In its power suitably to provide for the safety of employees and travelers congress was not limited to the enactment of laws relating to mechanical appliances, but it was also competent to consider and to endeavor to reduce the dangers incident to the strain of excessive hours of duty on the part of persons embraced within the class defined by the act.

The law attacked in this instance was not so radical as that which now engages public attention, but the power exercised by congress was the same.
No court is asked to pass upon the wisdom of the conditional legislation providing for an eight hour day. Congress itself will review and act upon this phase of the matter later on.

What is expected of the supreme court is a pronouncement upon the constitutionality of the Adamson law.
Having very recently asserted the absolute power of congress in a similar case, why should hesitation and delay attend upon a wider but only a tentative application of the same sovereign authority?
